Narathiwat Province

NARATHIWAT PROVINCE

The center of Narathiwat was once in Muang Ra Ngeh (now Ra Ngeh district). Overcrowding forced the town hall to move to Ban Ma Nah Lor. King Vachiravuth later named the new community "Narathiwat" meaning Land of the Decent People.

Today Narathiwat is the southernmost Province of Thailand bordering on Kelantan State of Malaysia. Blessed with scenic natural beauty both in jungle and the sea, it is one of the southern provinces under the Indonesia-Malaysia-Thailand Growth Triangle development project (IMT-GT). Its economic and border tourism centers are located in Sungai Kolok district which welcomes thousands of Malaysian and Singaporean tourists. It is also where culture, imports and exports are inter-changed.

■ Area To the north it border on Pattani and the gulf of Thailand, the gulf and Kelantan Malaysia to the east, Kelantan also to the south, and Yala to the west.

■ Climate The two annual seasons of the year are the hot and rainy seasons. Because of its tropical rainy climate, forests and jungles are lush with plant and animal lives.

■ Population and Administration Covering a total area of 4,475.43 sq.kms., Narathiwat is administratively divided into 13 districts; Muang, Tak Bai, Wang, Yee Ngoh, Sungai Kolok, Sungai Padee, Bacho, Ra Ngae,

Sukirin, Rue Soh, Si Sakhorn, Cha Nae and Chonl-Rong According to the census conducted in October of 1998, it has a population of 682,807

from Narathiwat

town on highway 4084 (Narathiwat-Tak Bai) Covering an area of some 300 Rai, it was built in 1973 by royal command. Within the compound are a large variety of plants providing cool shades and scenic views, including the highly valued Bang Soon palm. An art and craft center, offering training on pottery and ceramic crafts, is also located here. The Royal Villa is open to the public from nine o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, except when the Royal Family is in residence.

The Phikulthong Development Study Center

is about on km. Away from the Royal Villa and 8 kms. From the provincial town along highway 4084, between Ban Phikunthong and Ban Kok Saya villages. It was established by royal and research to develop problems concerning swamp areas and to train the local people on agriculture and other occupations, There are exhibitions on swamp land, research and development activities in different fields and sites to watch wild ducks (teals). The facility attracts tourists who are interested in nature and eco-system of swamps. It also produces and sells products crafted from Krajud (bulrush) and Panan (a type of sea pine).

Ban Yahkang an old community formerly called Ban Bang Nara, is about 4 kms. from town on Narathiwat-Rangae Rd. Today it is a major producer of batik materials of the province.

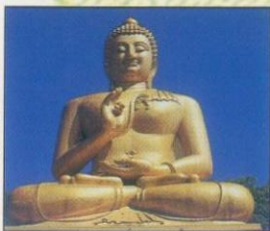

Ban Thorn at Tambon Kok Kian, Muang district, about 4 kms. from the Narathiwat airport and some 16 kms. from town, is a fishing village inhabited by Muslims Thai. Noted for its skills in building actual Ko lae boats and replicas and Krajud weaving, its attracts a steady stream of both Thai and foreign tourists.

an arboretum and pine trees. There are also holiday bungalows run by private operators for rent.

Attractions in Tak Bai District

Wat Choltara Singhe is situated in Tambon Che Heh of Tak Bai district. A senior monk, Phra Krue Opas Buddhakhun sought and was given a piece of land from Phraya Kelantan to build the temple during the later part of Rama IV's reign [circa 1860] when Tak Bai was still a part of kelantan. The temple played a major role during the demarcation of land between Siam and Malaya, then under British rule. Use as a negotiation bargaining point. the British eventually agreed to regard the Tak Bai and sungai kolok rivers as demarcation lines. The temple was subsequently known as "Wat Phitak Paendin Thai" [Temple Guarding Land of The Thais]. Buildings within the temple are built in delightful local architectural style. Within the Viharn are wall murals depicting the story of the Lord Buddha interposed with the life style of the people of that era.

Attractions in Bacho District

The Wadi Al-Husen Mosque is 25 kms. from the provincial town along highway 42 in Tambon Lubok Sawo. Built around 1624, it is regarded as one of the oldest mosque in Thailand, being over 300 years old. The special feature of the mosque is that the entire structure used no nails but only wooden pins instead and was designed in a combination of Thai, Chinese and Melayu styles.

Watcherng Khao an old temple located at Tambon Belukar Samoh. It can be reached by taking the turn on Petchkasem highway at Ban Ton Sai, about 13 kms. from the district office, then a turn toward the south and proceed on the another 5.5 kms. The viharn enshrines the body of Luang Pho Daeng, the former abbot and a famous monk of Narathiwat who died on January 1, 1979. Miraculously, his body did not decompose and so is held in great reverence and respect by Buddhists.

The main feature in Budo-Sungai Padi National Park is the 9 level Pa Cho waterfall with its wide and high cliff, the word Pa Cho it self means waterfall, One of the most scenic cascade in the south, it is located near highway 42 [Phetchkasem] about 26 kms. from Narathiwat and only two kms. from the Bacho district office. It serves as a place of relaxation of the local people and has guest houses for V.I.P's The rare Golden Leaves can be found only

Attactions in Sungai Kolok District

Pa Phru To Dang is the last surviving swamp-land in Thailand, covering an area of some 209,900 Rai extending over areas in three districts, namely, Sungai kolok, Sungai Padi, and Tak Bai. About 10 kms. from Sungai kolok, it can be reached by taking the Sungai kolok-Tak Bai route, turn left at km. 5 at Chavananan Road crossing and proceed on for five kms. then take another turn to the left and keep going for a further three kms. and taking a final left before reaching the Sirindhorn Peat Swamp Forest Nature Study and Research Center 2 kms. Away. The To Dang Swamp forest is still in a perfect condition and rich in fauna and flora with more than 200 species of wildlife and over 400 types of plant life, a valuable site for enthusiasts of nature and ecology.

Attractions in Waeng District

To get to the Sirindhorn Waterfall, take the highway 4057 from Waeng district and proceed on for 7 kms. Then take the turn to the road built for security purpose for another 8 kms, at which point visitors have to walk on for 300 metres. to reach the waterfall. The surroundings are in perfect condition with numerous kinds of plant life. Nearby is an on going project to research and collect species of wild flowers suitable for decorative purpose, with garden lots divided into different types under natural conditions, which make for a highly interesting visit in term of indigenous botany and cultivation to develop them into decorative plants and economic crop.

The Hala-Bala Wildlife Sanctuary is a new preservation area officially set up in 1996 located along the Sankala khiri mountain range which forms the Thai-Malaysia frontier and covers an area of about 270,725 Rai. It is made up of two unspoiled virgin jungles, namely the Hala in Betong district of Yala province and Cha Nae of Narathiwat, and the Bala in Wang and Sukhirin district of Narathiwat Province. Almost the entire area are inter-locking mountain ranges and richly covered in virgin jungles. As they lie next to an immense track of jungle in Malaysia, the Hala and Bala serve as the habitats of numerous rarely seen flora and fauna. Those interested in eco-tourism, particularly in bird-watching, will be able to observe the largest gathering of different species of hornbills in Thailand, or butterfly and plant life. The site is fairly easy to access as it is not far from Sungai kolok district with highway 4062 cutting across the area. Visits ot various points to study nature can be made on a one-day trip. However, visitors wishing to enter the area to carry out study should advise in advance the Hala-Bala wildlife Sanctuary at P.O.Box 3, Waeng District, Narathiwat Province

Festivals and Fairs

The Narathiwat's Specialities Festival [The Khong Dee Muang Nara Fair] is a gathering of activities showcasing Narathiwat a best products including goods from the Art and craft Training Center, Krajud products, Dove-cooing Contest, the Longkong Day and the Ko Lae Boat Race in Royal presence. It is usually held in September of each year.

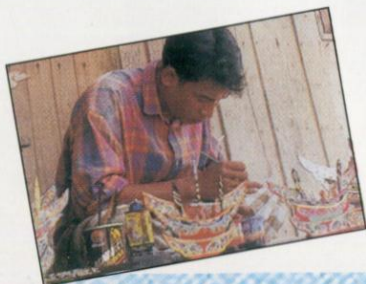

The Chao Mae To Moh Celebration is a major traditional fair of Sungai kolok, featuring a Chao Mae procession, a floral parade, a Lion Dance procession, demonstration of magical power by mediums, held on about the 23 rd of the 3 rd month of the Chinese calender.

Souvenirs and Local Handicraft

Products made of Krajud and Panan and Replicas of Ko Lae Boats available

from Ban Thorn

Batik materials made at Ban Yahkang Manao Bay and Sungaikolok

Pla Kurau is a highly tasty salted fish, also the most expensive, but greatly preferred by people. It is meticulously prepared at Tambon Che Hey of Tak Bai district.

Long Kong is Narathiwat's famous fruit and comes into season in August-September.
